

Betrayed by Modern Science, Real Stimulus Denied

Woodrow Riley
7/13/2009

Only the elite they choose are allowed to go;
everyone else is a tax-paying peon.

So, you are still wondering, after 50 years of Buck Rogers, Battlestar Galactica and Star Trek TV shows sci-fi movies and Captain Kirk dolls => where are the flying cars? Goes back farther than 100 years too. The space flight carrot was planted the century before Johnny Weissmuller played Tarzan in 1931.

Today's Science has failed you.

Why is that, and where th' heck is your flying car? Are engineers stuck in the fabric of time? Yep, actually they are, barring some secret government group hiding in the shadows stopping them, which has never been proven to exist but provides scientists a ready excuse for their seeming drop-ball ineptitude. In order to give you that promised flying car Science has to first admit there is a level of physical action ~a higher Law of Physics~ existing above the constraints of the three laws of thermodynamics... which I began to discover in 2003 and they have vehemently refused to acknowledge, since 2003. Like the Pharisees of Jesus' day they grasp firmly onto their old ways as defined by their old books and experience with heat-producing engines, while me being a newcomer -lacking the credentials they demand of newcomers- well, six years have passed now and they have successfully stopped the newcomer alright, plus you have been denied flying cars promised you ages ago as a child (til they learned just how many movie tickets you would purchase).

Travel into Outer Space for everyone is possible no matter what health you are in or your being elderly.

My engine discoveries show ways to make engine systems that do not produce excess heat, placing them above the 3 flying-car-crippling laws of thermo dynamics i.e. the first step to flying cars and Outer Space. My second engine of February 2005 does even better => it comes to a brief but 100% complete halt on every cycle, totally avoiding the accumulation of negatives called Entropy. When motion kinetic stops, the balls renew again a full load of cycle-refreshing potential energy.

Modern Science insists no entropy is impossible. Conveniently they dispatch my engine systems, and conveniently also you never get flying cars that would be the final step to Space Travel... because any engine that can produce an overwhelming upward force to beat gravity, out in Space freed of earth gravity would take you wherever you want to be very fast. Years ago I stated I had decided to not release my space-capable engines. That was then. I now plan to release them after my car engine and Millenial Dawn engine are built and made available to the world.

World and Families First, then Space => logical.