

If you could have only had this => sculpting fat by underskin intersected radio frequency waves overheating fat cells to break and die;
remembering 1996: CloudSeeder

CloudSeeder, what a name. It was not a frivolous choice. In 1996 I saw how to do fat-loss-by-radio waves that would have greatly blessed your life then had it reached you. Several ideas that would have changed the world, all mankind. I was very ill. It would have made me the wealthiest man in the world but I lacked the connections needed, so I sent it via Netscape e-mail to the company most in position to get it into production for you. I gave away the wealth of the world to give you weightloss and supreme bodily shapeliness plus help many back problems. For all the obese and overweight, morbidly obese and slightly overweight too, I gave wealth away heaved out the window in an effort to help you have a healthier bodyshape and less gravity-worsened illnesses.

I threw my financial future -and all the monies I needed to build all the inventions I have had since- to the sharks. So for the many people these past 6 years who have thrown it in my face why have I not built my engines for, well friends and I do mean you are my friends because I threw a fortune overboard enough to build 100 Titanics and 100 Lusitanias, rebuild cities, make all homes energy independent with my on-site power generating solar, wind and gravity systems.

It all went out the window swoosh. As I have written many places already, I am your friend to a degree you have never known. Here goes. The inspiration was worthy of Dr. Leonard McCoy on Star Trek. I had taken electronic circuit board theory at ECPI in Roanoke Virginia but due to color blindness eventually had to give it up. I learned plenty about the behavior of electricity before leaving. The idea: aim radio frequency waves of narrow wavelength from outside your skin to hit together under the skin (subcutaneous)... at the point of intersection, the combined frequencies raising the cell temperature of water-laden fat cells (adipose tissue)... heating the fat cell's water enough to where it expands and breaks the cell wall (membrane) killing your fat cells.

At the time we were still using phone modems, very slow, but I found the manufacturer of magnetic resonance imaging machines overseas and e-mailed my ideas to them. Why the MRI's? MRI's were to be used to first scan a patient's body making a "map image" for where the fat is needing to be targeted so they could then just pass you through a 2nd pass to destroy the fat cells, leaving people with a fantastically-shaped beautiful svelte new body.

13 years ago. I know they got it because a few years ago in the news a woman with a deep brain cancer was "operated on" without scalpels using my system without breaking her skin. Like the team in Armageddon where Bruce Willis trusted Ben Affleck when he told him "make the call" I made the call and you still got hit with an obesity epidemic the size of that killer asteroid. That was 1996 when I seeded the cloud for you & the drought caught you and slammed you into the ground anyway. As to who or why the MRI people decided to let you die en masse from obesity I do not know but for my part I apologize. As now I did then => the best I could do with what I had.
